"Make Haste Slowly"

They who are in such haste to consummate reconstruction by the immediate admission of the Southern delegations to Congress would do well to turn back a few pages in the history of the war and read again the experiences of the times when "On to Richmond" was the frenzied watchword of all the impatient and inconsiderate elements of the Northern population It would seem that the costly lessons then learned from inconsiderate haste should have remained a little fresher in memory than appears to be the case with these hotspur, haste making and waste making individuals A very important condition precedent to final reconstruction and the surrender to the Southern people of the political management of States, is a permanent change of the masses from their late disloyal sentiments toward and vindictive hatred of, the Government, to at least such a degree of loyal feeling as shall guarantee perfect integrity and good faith in all relations with the General Government and with all its citizens In the nature of things, it cannot be that this radical change should have taken place so soon, and the testimony is not wanting to show most conclusively that it has not taken place with anything like a majority of the people They may accept their defeat, but they accept it rather in the light of humiliation than of justice. They may submit to the law but they do it rather through inability to resist, than because they welcome its restraints They may send some loyal men to represent them in Congress, but if so, they do it under the moral force of restraint held by the General Government, the presence of the military, and the administration of the test oath, rather than because they prefer that sort of representatives.

So far the rebel States and people have been reconstructed by force, and may be trusted with political power while the Government stands by with force to regulate its proper exercise, but further enlargement of privilege than this, it is doubtful if it be safe to grant them till they have time to grow into warmer feelings toward the Government, or, at least, a more willing acceptance of the new order of things

Any State which may now have sent up one or more loyal representatives, under the influences we have mentioned, may, at the very next election, if left altogether to itself, return none but the most active participants in the late rebellion, and the most violent and pestiferous haters of the Government We think it more than possible, indeed, quite probable, that such would be the case, judging from such exhibitions of spirit in the South as we have been able to see, and from the testimony of such men as we can most readily believe The State offices would of course be filled with the same sort of men, and altogether, the entire South would present again very much the same aspects as just before the outbreak of the rebellion, and the war which should have resulted in a complete correction of all such evils, might be summed up as simply a waste of so many lives and so much treasure. The substantial benefits of the war should be seized, and applied for the mutual advantage of the whole people and the permanence of the Government, and the future will hold to a rigid accountability whomsoever fritters them away. If, by haste and want of consideration, we permit the fruits of our victory to turn to ashes, we should be but justly punished if every soldier who paid his life for it, should become a haunting terror and bitterly mock us down to the last moment of our lives. The rebels who now clamor so loudly for immediate reinstatement in the favor and emoluments of the Government, went voluntarily out of Congress and federal offices and remained out five years, and it cannot now be deemed a very great hardship if we keep them out a little longer, till we become satisfied that they come back in perfect good faith and offer us unquestionable guarantees of future good behavior Let them be satisfied to make haste slowly It is clearly our duty to proceed with the utmost caution, taking no step that is not planted surely upon an enduring foundation, so that there shall be no step backward in the work of reconstructing a glorious and everlasting Union. Headlong speed may plunge us into utter ruin, while deliberation must eventually set all things right

THE PROMISES MADE LAST APRIL.—We desire to keep the promises which the President made last spring before the people of this State. On the 21st of April, 1865, Andrew Johnson delivered a lengthy speech to a delegation from Indiana. Compare the following extract from that speech with the policy he has pursued for the past eight months In all our history there is no other instance where pledges solemnly given have been so shamelessly violated The Union party stands to the doctrine which Johnson declared last spring, he has now renounced it

I know it is very easy to get up sympathy and sentiment while human blood is about to be shed—easy to acquire a reputation for leniency and kindness, but sometimes its effect and practical operations produce misery and woe to the mass of mankind. Sometimes an individual whom the law has overtaken, and on whom its penalties are about to be imposed, will appeal and plead with the executive for the exercise of clemency but before its exercise he ought to ascertain what is mercy and what is not mercy. It is a very important question, and one which deserves the consideration of those who moralize upon crime and the morals of a nation—whether in some cases action should not be suspended here and transferred to Him who controls all There if innocence has been invaded if wrong has been done the Controller and Giver of all Good—one of whose attributes is mercy—will set it right It is not promulging anything that I have not heretofore said to say that traitors must be odious, that treason must be made odious that traitors must be punished and impoverished They must not only be punished but their social power must be destroyed. If not they will still maintain an ascendancy and may again become numerous and powerful for in the words of a former Senator of the United States "When traitors become numerous enough treason becomes respectable." And I say that after making treason odious every Union man and the Government should be remunerated out of the pockets of those who have inflicted this great suffering upon the country

AN INFAMOUS SHEET.—The infamous La Crosse Democrat continues the utterance of its diabolical sentiments in admiration of the assassination of President Lincoln and of the assassin who served The following is a late specimen "There is not a man or woman who does not from the inmost heart respect John Wilkes Booth with all his crime more than they do Ben. Butler the thief and renegade who has disgraced the nation There is not an honest man who does not respect the people of the South more than he does the ranting cowards of New England, backed by the fawning sycophants of the West People admire bravery and when backed by honest principles freely indorse"

The Richmond (Virginia) Times laments that the fine old Virginia gentlemen who used to wear ruffled shirts and white hats and carry gold snuff boxes and gold headed canes and who were the pride of society are all rapidly dying off, "mainly" it says, "by reason of their use of new apple brandy during the war, instead of the fine old liquors whereto they had been accustomed and by other deprivations of a similar character"

PRESIDENTIAL RESPONSES.—The second of the President's weaknesses—the first shall be nameless—is his propensity to make speeches to "delegations" His last response was to a delegation of Copperheads and semi rebels from the Kentucky Legislature who came to Washington about three days ago, to praise the wisdom and moderation of his reconstruction policy—a policy with which the aforesaid Legislature is very deeply in love, because under its mild operation the exiled Breckinridge can soon safely return to his home and go from thence to the United States Senate again A delegation from Montana waited on the President some weeks since and laid before him some interesting facts in relation to the growth and prospects of that Territory. The opportunity was seized on by the President to make a speech in praise of himself and in defence of that unexplainable and indefensible something which he calls "my reconstruction policy" The following is a portion of what he very modestly said in regard to himself. It is almost word for word the same language which he afterwards made use of in his speech to the rabble at the White House on the 22d of February. As a sample of the self-laudatory style, it is quite equal to anything that Cicero, the prince of conceited bigots, ever said in praise of himself. Here is the excessively modest paragraph.

If I were disposed to refer to myself, I might trace my career back to the log cabin, then an Alderman and Mayor in a village, then through both houses of the State Legislature, then for ten consecutive years in the National House of Representatives, then through the gubernatorial chair to the Senate of the United States, then Provisional Governor, with a slight participation in military affairs, then Vice President, and now in the position I occupy before you

NOT TRUE.—The copperhead papers have frequently boasted of late that the Oregon Volunteers would vote their ticket at the coming election We have conversed with several returned soldiers lately, and they all unite in pronouncing this a base and slanderous lie. They declare that there is not in all probability a man in the service who would for a moment think of voting for a copperhead They do say however, that there are many volunteers who would refuse to vote for their former officers on personal grounds, in case they should be placed on the Union ticket, but they would, under no circumstances, vote for one of the common enemy. The men who denounced them as "Lincoln's minions" and "cowardly hirelings" they have not forgotten and never will forget They abhor those rebel sympathizers, as not only the bitter personal enemies of the soldiers, but as the enemies of the Government and country in which they live.—State Journal.

PROGRAMME OF THE "RECONSTRUCTED."—The future programme of the reconstructed rebels is epitomized in the following scrap of dialogue, related by a Mobile correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette: "Which side will we take?" answered an adept in political shuffling, whose presence graced many a caucus in Washington in the olden times. "Why, the side that bids highest for us, of course. And you needn't be at any loss to know what side that is You've been whipping us right soundly. We acknowledged the whipping, but we don't kiss the hand that gave it—not by a d—d sight! We'll unite with the opposition up North, and between us we'll make a majority. Then we'll show you who's going to rule this country."

AN HONEST farmer in the State of Pennsylvania, married a miss from a fashionable boarding school for his second wife. He was struck dumb with her eloquence, and gaped with wonder with his wife's learning. "You might," said he, "bore a hole through the solid airth, and chuck in a millstone, and she will tell you to a shavin' how long the stone will be goin' clean through I used for to think that it was air that I sucked in every time that I expired; howsomdever, she telled me that she knowed better she telled me that I had been sucking two kinds of gin—ox gin and high gin. My stars, I'm a temperance man, and yet have been drinking ox gin and high gin all my life."

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

SATURDAY MORNING, MARCH 17 1866

National Banks

Up to February 1st, 1866 there had been 1,613 National Banks organized aggregating a capital of $410,000,000. The circulation was $268,000,000, for the security of this circulation the banks had deposited with the Controller of Currency $316,000,000 in National bonds. The law prescribes $300,000,000 as the limit of National bank note circulation, so that there remains but $32,000,000 yet to be issued. On this subject we quote as follows from the Chicago Tribune January 1st:

There are something like seventy five millions of old State shinplasters still in circulation. Let them be retired, and the quicker the better. On the 1st of January there were $173,012,000 of six per cent legal tender notes, due in 1867, outstanding, and $32,536,901 five per cent legal tenders, making a total of two hundred and six millions of interest bearing Treasury notes. Let these be funded into long five or six per cent bonds. This will be all the funding of currency the Government can do for some time to come. When these interest bearing legal tenders are out of circulation the banks will be obliged to keep on hand for purposes of redemption of their issue as required by law, a hundred millions of greenbacks. This will materially reduce the value of circulation afloat and bring up the value of currency to 90 or 95 cents. When gold falls to 100 or 108 silver will be on a par with paper, and the Government can then call in its little ragged, greasy fractional currency shinplasters and force silver into circulation. We believe that greenbacks will rise to the value of gold, by first issuing no more National bank notes than were authorized by law. Second. Driving out of circulation the residue of the old State bank issues. Third. Repealing the legal tender character of the interest bearing Treasury notes, and funding them. Fourth. By calling in and destroying all the fractional shinplasters. Lastly. By funding a few millions of the greenbacks, and making the residue a legal tender for tariff duties to the extent, say, of one third or half of the impost. They might not rise quite to par, but they would certainly reach 98 or 99 per cent., and would gradually work up to the exact level of the royal metal.

The Way it was Done.—When the intelligence reached Salem of the breach between Congress and the President, the little group of servile politicians who own and conduct the Statesman, flew at once to the telegraph office and dispatched messages to various parts of the State asking certain men for an endorsement of Johnson. Two or three who like those by whom the Statesman is conducted, feel that all their prospects for distinction in this world rest on their retaining the good will of the person who gives the Government patronage to the hungry, may have responded to the appeal; but the greater number of them never gave their consent to have their names used in that connection. We have positive knowledge that five of the ten or twelve whose names the Statesman paraded did not authorize it. Several, of the others we have not heard from, but we presume that, with a possible exception or two, their sentiments are identical with those of the number from whom we have heard. Some of these gentlemen have, to our knowledge, complained bitterly of the injustice the Statesman has done them in this matter. The truth is, the politicians who control that paper attempted to do a very smart thing, utterly regardless of the base means they employed to accomplish it. They were determined to support Johnson at all hazards, thinking that the time was come for the formation of the "new party" which they, with numerous politicians, and even the President himself, had founded their calculations upon. Desiring to mislead the people into the belief that all the principal Union men of the State were going for Johnson as against Congress and all who opposed the President's policy, the Statesman published this list of names without having heard a word from many of the parties as to their opinions. This is simply the way in which the matter was worked up. The whole thing excellently illustrates the utterly unprincipled character of the politicians and Federal office-holders who conduct the Statesman.

Southern Loyalty.—The reports of the Post-office agents at the South concur in the statement that newly appointed postmasters or others taking office and subscribing to the test oath, are at once "outlawed from social intercourse." Not over two months ago the statement was made that, out of about two thousand post offices reopened, not less than three hundred had to be put in charge of postmistresses, because men could not be found to take them on condition of subscribing to the test oath. Agents of the Government, lately returned from tours whose object was to ascertain the feelings of the Southern people, report that wherever their sentiments are unrestrained by the presence of known Federal officials, the people speak most bitterly of the Government, and exhibit the most unqualified intention of submitting only while force restrains them. These people deposit silent and secret ballots for Congressmen. Does anybody suppose they will not naturally deposit such ballots for men who feel like themselves? Does anybody suppose that representatives elected by such suffrages are fit to take equal part with loyal men in settling the policies of the Government? Yet we find in the North, men of hitherto loyal records, who insist that Southern members shall be admitted without delay. To us it is incomprehensible.

The Trade of Montana.—The Montana Post, of February 17th, adverting to the rivalry for the trade with that young and prosperous Territory, says:

There can be no question that Portland will be a formidable rival to St. Louis, for the whole of the trade of the Territory; but it lies in the power of the latter city to confine her to the Western slope, and it must be remembered that the goods which will be sent from Portland, for the most part, originally came from the East; but on the other hand, many articles will be imported direct from Asia, which previously traversed a distance nearly equal to the circumference of the globe, ere they arrive in Oregon, by way of New York and round the Horn.

St. Louis is waking up, and from the articles in the Republican and other river papers, we may confidently expect that, in the spring, we shall see the permanent establishment of a depot on the banks of the Missouri, at the Muscle Shell. A line of flat-bottomed lap-streak (or clinker) steam boats, slightly deeper in draught at the centre than at the sides, and so built that the sides, up to the load line, from an angle with the bottom, of about 140 degrees, will secure a trade to St. Louis of which she has no idea at present. Such vessels will be easy to back off, or scratch over a shoal, and so steady that ten tons passed across the deck will give no roll, while at the same time the deeper they are loaded the safer they will be. A few improvements of the channel may be necessary, or at least expedient, but the stationing of a dredgerboat on the upper river, the removal of a few inconvenient rocks, and the drawing of snags—all of which are matters of no financial importance, in view of the magnitude of the prize played for—would suffice to make the voyage certain and easy. These things should be done at once; for St. Louis will have powerful rivals besides Portland to contend with. The wagon trails from St Joseph, Omaha, Leavenworth and many other places, all take a large amount of business from the river, but once let a safe water route be established, and neither of those last mentioned roads, nor even the Sioux City line, nor what is still worse for her, the North Pacific railway, can ever rob St. Louis of a vast trade with the country east of the range and Northern Utah itself may yet be mainly supplied with eastern goods forwarded by river transit to Muscle Shell, and thence by a good practicable road on the south side of the mountains around Virginia to the northern settlements. All depends upon the activity of the competitors. The route first established will have all the capital of the successful traders to back it, and it will be hard to divert the trade from it. If St. Louis sends heavy boats up the Missouri for one more season, the mistake will cost her more millions than she has yet earned, for Portland will make a good, low, level wagon road from the head of navigation, and having nothing like the distance to overcome, she will be established in trade before St. Louis has opened hers.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO MARCH 16.

Comptroller Clark's Statement – A Sensation.

New York, March 15.—The Times special dispatch says the Comptroller letter of Comptroller Clark has been the special sensation of the day at the Capital. It is understood that the Secretary has taken the position that he cannot consistently with self-respect indulge in a public controversy with his subordinate, and will not therefore submit any reply to the latter. It is believed that the gross [illegible] raised by the Comptroller [illegible] likely [illegible] the Treasury [illegible]. The explanation given of the Treasury statement of the large [illegible] and [illegible] that when the [illegible] are issued warrants it [illegible] before warrants are counted at the deposit as named [illegible] until the amount was actually paid.

Mail Lettings for the Pacific Coast.

Washington, March 15.—The Post office Department has closed the mail lettings for the Pacific States. The competition was great and the prices were much less than last year. The following are the more prominent contracts: San Francisco to Sacramento, $18,000—reduction $2,000; San Francisco to Stockton, $11,000—a loss [illegible] 000; San Francisco to Los Angeles, $18,000 [illegible] $ 800. The greater [illegible] Portland Oregon, (925 miles) was let to Henry W. Corbett at $170 000—present price $[illegible]

The Trade to Montana.

St. Louis, March 15.—The upper river trade with Montana and Idaho opens briskly. The chief feature of the spring business is, that the advertisements of boats fill the columns of the daily papers and immense quantities of goods are being purchased for shipment. Several boats have already left, and not less than seventy five are now receiving freight and passengers. The emigration thither was [illegible] resembles that of the California fever of 1849. All the boats leading draw three feet of water, and hope to get through before low water.

Steamer Burned.

New York, March 15.—The steamer San Jacinto of the Savannah line was burned at the dock this morning with 600 bales of cotton and 200 barrels of flour.

Havana advices of March 10th say that a Spanish war steamer had brought in captured slaves [illegible], which was reported to have 1,674 slaves on board.

A Robbery Possibly not a Robbery.

New York, March 15th.—It now appears that Mc Cl[illegible] the New York capitalist, whose office is said to have been robbed the other day to the tune of a million and a half dollars, does not remember when he counted the contents of the missing tin box, therefore it is not known to a certainty when the robbery, if any, was committed. From his well known forgetfulness and carelessness, the New York papers infer the bonds may yet be found in some obscure place where he hid them.

Defeat of the Canadian Reciprocity Treaty

Chicago, March 15th.—The defeat of the bill regulating trade with Canada, by a vote of 67 to 52 was almost entirely due to animosity felt by members toward Canada for its unfriendly conduct during the late war. The tariff will now go into effect along the border upon the termination of the reciprocity treaty March 17th, and much interest is felt to see the effect it will have.

The Fenian Scare.

The Fenian scare continues to excite our Canadian neighbors. Toronto and Montreal papers are filled with details of military movements and preparations. Mass meetings of the Fenians are held daily. The Fenians now allege that the whole Canadian excitement is founded on a British scheme to form a confederation and place a British prince on an American throne.

Resolutions in Georgia Legislature

Cincinnati, March 11.—The Georgia House of Representatives on the 12th adopted the following:

Resolved, That the only hope for the preservation of free government on this continent lies in the maintenance of union on the principles of the Constitution, and as all rational basis for sectional parties has passed away with the extinction of slavery, we pledge ourselves, irrespective of former party distinctions, inspired by the recent lamentable war, to co-operate cordially and earnestly with men of all sections, who will lay down party considerations upon the altar of a common country and rally to the support of the President—noble, courageous, patriotic and determined that by the exercise of wisdom, justice moderation and magnanimity, the principles of the Constitution shall be re-established and engraved on the hearts of the people.

Political Organization to Support the President.

New York, March 15.—The New York Tribune says: Efforts are being made by Henry J. Raymond, Elias D. Campbell and others, to organize a political party in support of the President, and Raymond, being Chairman of the National Republican Executive Committee, an attempt will be made to control the machinery of that organization.

Opinions and Sayings of the Press.

The New York Times says that Sumner's proposition fixing the basis of representation has merit, being the most ingenious yet offered. It is so framed as to touch the various interests which have thus far been found to conflict. It leaves the basis according to population, which will suit New England. It makes no allusion to race or color, which suits Sumner and his particular friends. It provides that disfranchisement of rebels by any State, shall not lessen its representation, which will suit Tennessee and Missouri, and act as a sort of inducement for loyal men to disfranchise rebels where they have the power, and at the same time, it will reduce the representation of all States which exclude negroes from the right of franchise.

There is a growing sentiment in both Houses that some amendment of the basis of representation to meet the changed condition of the country must prevail.

The New York World says that President Johnson, having appealed in his 22d of February speech, from Congress to the people, is too experienced a politician not to see the necessity of using all reasonable means to make the appeal effectual. Wherever in any State canvass the Republican party does not, and the Democratic does endorse his policy, he cannot, without political suicide, give aid to the Republicans. He may think the connection so unimportant in a national point of view as to justify his interference, but he cannot let Pennsylvania go by default.

The National Intelligencer says the prospect is the President's friends in Connecticut will vote the Democratic ticket.

The Massachusetts legislature has been ten days discussing resolutions endorsing Congress and denouncing the President. The most fiery element of debate is now being introduced on an amendment virtually repudiating Senator Sumner, offered by John Quincy Adams and supported by a large number of Republican members. The debate occupies nearly the whole time of the daily session, and no conclusion has yet been arrived at.

Secretary McCulloch and Controller Clark.

Chicago, March 15.—It has been known for some time that Secretary McCulloch and Freeman Clark, Controller of the Currency, were at variance in respect to the loan bill and other questions of financial policy. The latter now publishes the correspondence. Clark, under date of Feb 24th, states his decided opposition to the loan bill, for the reason that ample ability exists with means in the Treasury not required for other uses, to fund that portion of the temporary loan deemed desirable. He says there must be at this time—Feb. 22d—one hundred and fifty millions on hand, including deposits in the National Banks, and the amount it would be expedient to pay would not be more than the amount of the increase of deposit during the past few weeks. We have, therefore no occasion for making any loan whatever. All can be done by simply exchanging one currency for another, certificates of indebtedness, compound interest notes 5 per cent legal tenders and 7-30 treasury notes into 5-20 bonds under act of March 3d, 1865, and these can be quietly done without disturbing the money market and the business of the country, the Secretary being the judge of how far and how rapid the amount should proceed.—I think there is no doubt about the willingness of owners of floating debt to convert into 5-20s to the extent wished if the credit of our securities is sustained; but if authority, is given to put bonds upon the market to almost an unlimited amount, and to sell at any price, it would, in my view, cause such uncertainty in the public mind as to render it impossible to keep up the price of Government securities. As to the position in reference to a foreign loan it would, in my view, if carried into effect, be almost suicidal.

The Secretary's reply to this is not published, but Clark, under date of March 10th says: Yours of yesterday is received. I don't see any impropriety in giving expression to my dissent from your views of finance. You say instead of $150,000,000 there was, on February 14th only $111,000,000 exclusive of special gold deposits, which amounted, on March 14th, to $12,027,000. I cannot see any reason for your maintaining a distinction between gold receipts and deposits made in currency. Clark proceeds: Your published statement showing the condition of the Treasury and the public debt on the 1st of March is inexcusably erroneous. You state the amount of coin in the Treasury to be $56,736,172, and of currency, $8,628,776,-713. Total, $61,601,897,124.

Your monthly statement shows that there was $7,460,850 in compound interest and legal tenders. This amount must be added, as you have no right to increase them. The law expressly provides that compound interest notes shall not be converted into 5-20s, and legal tenders into compound interest notes. It also appears by your last monthly statement that you have sold during the month, with no authority of law, $10,372,700 in 5-20 bonds and purchased $10,050,000 in 7-30 notes, making the purchase $183,400 more than the sale. This sum should also be included as money on hand. I will remark here that while you have the right to convert 7-30 notes into 5-20 bonds as the former mature, you have no right whatever to buy or sell them. You have uniformly omitted the amount on deposit in National Banks. This on Feb. 14th must have been $25,000,000, making a total to the credit of the Government of $167,788,000. I will add that I can show to the satisfaction of any one that none of your monthly reports for the last four months have given within $30,000,000 of the amount in the Treasury or deposited elsewhere. An accurate report of the condition of the Treasury is not merely a matter of interest to the public. But it is of grave consequence that Congress should be correctly informed as to the actual resources of the Government so that it may legislate intelligently and appropriately.

Secretary McCulloch has not yet made public any answer. Clark claims to be sustained with much interest. It should be added that the Comptroller of the currency is independent of the Secretary, being appointed for five years and can only be removed for cause, the Senate being judges.

In Congress—Sparring Scene.

Washington, March 15.—In the House, Hon. Clay Smith of Kentucky rose to a personal explanation. He denounced the newspaper comments on his course and was proceeding, when Stevens objected to a waste of time. A debate sprung up and was participated in by Morrill, of Vt; Banks of Mass; Washburne of Ills, etc. Mr. Spalding said the gentleman from Ky. was in order. South proceeded to assail the statement of the rebel States, denouncing the theory that [illegible] out of the Union as a doctrine of heresy.

Stevens — What no gentleman would utter, no gentleman can answer.

Stevens reported the Indian appropriation bill, which was made the special order for next Thursday.

Washington, March 15th. Washburne of Illinois said in a speech to-day that Gen. Grant handled the nation through the wilderness of war and it might be that he could handle it through its political troubles.

[illegible] March 15.—The [illegible] Mail [illegible] March 14th [illegible] Consols [illegible]

Washington, March 15.—The Senate [illegible] the civil rights bill [illegible] the President [illegible] special [illegible] The bill [illegible] the United States [illegible] excluding [illegible] of the United States without distinction of color [illegible] to any previous condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as punishment for crime, whereof they shall have been duly convicted, shall have the same right to make and enforce contracts, to sue and be parties [illegible] evidence [illegible] real and personal property [illegible] security of person and property, and shall be subject to like punishment, pains, penalties, and to none other, any law, statute, ordinance, regulation or custom to the contrary notwithstanding.

The second section says any person who, under color of any law, shall subject or cause to be subjected any inhabitant of any State or Territory to the deprivation of any right secured or protected by this act, or to different punishment, pains or penalties on account of such person having at any time been held in a condition of slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, or by reason of his color or race, than is prescribed for white persons, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall, on conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding $1,000 or imprisonment not exceeding one year, or both, at the discretion of the court.

The third section gives the United States District Court exclusive jurisdiction of crimes arising under the act and also concurrently with the United States Circuit Courts of all causes civil or criminal affecting persons who were denied or cannot enforce the rights secured by this act in the judicial tribunals of the State, and if any suit or prosecution, civil or criminal has been or shall be commenced in any State Court against any such persons for any cause whatever, or against any officer, civil or military, or other person for any arrest or imprisonment, trespass or wrongs done or committed by virtue or under authority deduced from this act or any act establishing it. For an act for the relief of freedmen and refugees, and all acts amendatory thereof, or for refusing to enforce any act on the ground that it would be inconsistent with this act such defendant shall have the right to remove such cause for trial for the proper District or Circuit Court in the manner prescribed by an act relating to the writ of Habeas corpus and regulating the judicial proceedings in certain cases.

United States Marshals and District Attorneys and Agents of the Freedmen's Bureau are authorized to prosecute under this bill, and to serve penalties which are provided for all persons who may in any way hinder the operations of it. An additional section provides that on all questions of law arising in any case under the provisions of this act, a final appeal shall be taken to the Supreme Court of the United States. Nothing in this act however is to be so construed as to affect the laws of any State concerning the right of suffrage.

Chicago, March 15th.—The vote in the Senate on the 15th, by which the Colorado bill was rejected was as follows: Ayes—Chandler, Cragin, Kirkwood, Lane of Ind., and Lane of Kansas, McDougall, Nesmith, Norton, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Sherman, Stewart, Trumbull and Williams—14. Noes—Buckalew, Conness, Creswell, Davis, Doolittle, Fessenden, Foster, Grimes, Guthrie, Harris, Henderson, Morgan, Morrill, Poland, Riddle, Sprague, Stockton, Sumner, VanWinkle, Wade, Wilson—21.

The New York Times' correspondent says the debate preceding the vote assumed a different aspect from that expected at the opening of the question, negro suffrage being withdrawn as an issue, having the appeal of Colorado to stand upon the policy of finally of admitting a young Territory of the West or North West with a more village population, on an equality in the House and influence in the Senate equal with the great States of New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio. This subject has for some time engaged the attention of the Senate, and the result discloses the settled purpose among members of both political parties to oppose hereafter the admission of new States until the population shall equal the basis of representation for a member of Congress. It was shown today that it was practicable for an individual, ambitious of Senatorial or other official honors, with good management and reasonable financial resources, to literally carry the destiny of a sparsely populated Territory in his breeches pockets. The inequality of representation like this was likened to the rotten borough system of Europe. Montana, New Mexico, and other applicants for State privileges must make their population several times greater than they had expected could be got along with.

Washington, March 16.—Comptroller Clark's letter created a flurry in Congress to-day. Mr. Clark was on the floor of the House hissing members, and was accused by Mr. Wentworth of trying to influence the House to defeat the bill and thwart Secretary McCulloch's policy. So great is the interest felt in this matter that the ways and means committee went to department and made inquiries and Hooper of the committee, on his return made a statement to the House saying the Secretary's statement of the public debt was correct, the amount of money in national banks being $25,000,000, and was included in $116,-000,000 reported to be in the Treasury by the Secretary on March 1.

Mr. Wentworth spoke two hours in earnest support of Secretary McCulloch's policy, and in severe denunciation of Comptroller Clark. He was also severe on the lobby which he declared had to be driven from the floor of the House. He said there could be no resumption of specie payment till short obligations were out of the way, and he believed that the Secretary had adequate power under existing laws, and strenuously objected to the granting of any power in addition to retire by paying or funding the non-interest bearing legal tenders—a species of currency everywhere popular and acceptable until the short obligations were provided for. He thought the Secretary should give public notice of the amounts and classes of liabilities to be retired, so that the business of the country would accommodate itself to it. He spoke of the accumulation of money in the treasury, and thought the temporary loan should be paid off and discontinued.

Secretary McCulloch has written letters to several Republican Congressmen, in which he says he feels much anxiety about the political situation, and very much desires that something shall be done to restore harmony between the Government and the people of the South. He thinks one step in the direction would result from a full and free conference between leading Northern and leading Southern men now in the city. He suggests such a meeting be called.

General Frank Blair was nominated to the Senate to-day, by the President, as Collector of Internal Revenue for the first district of Missouri.

Proposed Amendment to the Constitution of Wisconsin.

Chicago, March 15.—The Wisconsin Senate has passed a resolution for altering the State constitution by striking out the word white from the suffrage article. The question, therefore will be again submitted to the popular vote next November.

Indiana Copperhead Convention.

Indianapolis, March 16.—The Indiana Democratic State convention yesterday nominated the following ticket: For Secretary of State, Gen. Walden D. Manson; for Auditor, C. S. Badger; for Treasurer, Jas. B. Ryon; for Attorney General, John R. Cofforth; for Superintendent of Public Instruction, R. M. Chapman. Resolutions were offered that the effort of the Southern people for independence having proved insufficient, these people have become limited to their Constitutional obligations, and rights of which representation and protection are chief. It was also

Resolved, That the principles avowed by President Johnson in his annual message, looking to the early practical restoration of all the States to their rights in the Union meets with our hearty approval, and the action of the majority in Congress, dictated, as it is, by fanaticism, or at best, for political power, and being excited by the wish to keep States out of the Union, we solemnly condemn; therefore we cordially endorse the veto of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill, and declare that in our judgment the courage displayed, the doctrines avowed and high sense of right manifested in that message, and the President's subsequent speeches, promise well for the future of the administration of Johnson and we hereby pledge him the earnest and disinterested support of the Indiana Democracy in all his conflicts with that fanatical Congressional majority, in his efforts to prevent them from changing or destroying our cherished form of Government.

Resolved, That in our opinion, the sole power of the Senate and House over admission of members is confined to the election returns, and as Congress has usurped the power to keep eleven States unrepresented, it is the prerogative and duty of the President to defend and uphold the integrity of every State, and take care that the laws are executed. The other resolutions favor free trade, the taxation of federal bonds, denounce negro suffrage and favors the eight hour movement. It was also resolved that money expended in support of the Freedmen's Bureau ought, of right and justice to be applied to the relief of the widows and orphans of the white soldiers who have fallen in battle. Mr. Voorhees made a speech saying that "President Johnson was not my friend or yours, but let us stand by him who gives evidence to the country that he is trying to do right—him whom we know to be an iron man, who has thus far his grip on the factious majority in Congress. I will give my opinion, that he will astonish them at the speedy end to which he will bring matters, when he makes war upon them. A man who elected by a party to which he was an alien makes himself a recreant as to take it [illegible] and walk out and call men by their true names—traitors and disunionists, is a man not to be trifled with. In all your calculations take him into account."

District Court of the United States. [illegible] —March term 1866. The decision in the following [illegible] was made yesterday. [illegible] and we publish the following synopsis [illegible] Sloop or steamship Active [illegible] law. The libel [illegible] October, 1865, brought goods [illegible] of Victoria, and unloaded [illegible] illegally without a permit after arriving within the limits of the United States in the Columbia river [illegible]. The claimant, Charles Thorn, excepted to the sufficiency of the libel for various reasons. [illegible] lowed except one, and that is [illegible] does not show that the illegal unlading and delivery was at a port within the United States. Section 27 of the Collection Act of 1799 provides [illegible] ding goods, after a vessel has arrived within the limits of a collection district of the United States, and before such vessel shall come to the proper place for the discharge of her cargo or some portion thereof, and be there duly authorized by the proper officer of the Customs to unlade the same. The penalties imposed for a violation of this section, are a forfeiture of the goods so unladen, and a penalty of $1,000 against the Master and Mate of the vessel each; but this section does not subject the vessel to forfeiture. The facts of this case bring it within the terms and provision of section 27, and under this section the vessel is not subject to forfeiture. But section 50 of the same Act provides that no goods, &c., brought in any ship or vessel from any foreign port or place, shall be unladen or delivered from such ship, &c., within the United States, but in open day, except by special license, nor at any time, without a permit therefor from the proper officers of the Customs. The penalties imposed for a violation of this section are a forfeiture of the goods so unladen, a penalty of $400 against the Master or those aiding therein, and when the goods, &c., at the port or district where landed, are of the value of $400, the vessel is also subject to forfeiture. The facts of this case bring it completely within the words of this section. But while within the words of these sections, is it within the provision, purpose or legal intent of the section. Should these two sections be construed as intended to apply to the same cases, the latter providing for [illegible] different than the former and in case the goods be of the value of $400, adding the forfeiture of the vessel, or should section 27 be held to apply exclusively until the vessel reaches a port, and section 50 exclusively thereafter? This is the question in the case. If section 50 is to have effect according to the natural meaning of its words, then it overlaps section 27 and [illegible] all cases of illegal unlading within the United States and the Active is subject to forfeiture. But if it is to be restrained by construction as above suggested, upon the presumption that Congress did not intend these sections to be accumulative, and thus impose [illegible] penalties for the same [illegible], then the case of the Active falls exclusively within section 27 and the vessel is not subject to forfeiture. The arguments and reasons of public policy for and against these conflicting constructions are to my mind pretty evenly balanced. The object of the law is to [illegible] frauds upon the revenue, and all cases within the words of the Statute, and the mischiefs intended to be [illegible] by it, should be held to be within the [illegible]. It is manifest that by fixing a certain point on the [illegible] a port, where the force of section 27 is to [illegible] terminate, and that of section 50 begin to be [illegible] may sometimes be so difficult to determine under which of these sections an illegal unlading should be punished, that the offender would [illegible] without punishment or [illegible] whatever. Indeed it may be said, that section 27 [illegible] to apply to a vessel arriving within the United States, does not cease to apply until she is not only in a port but at the proper place for the discharge of her [illegible] permit to unlade the same. In effect these are the words of the section. If then section 50 does not [illegible] until this point in the progress of the vessel is reached, there is nothing left for it to apply to—for there is no [illegible] against unlading after a permit for that [illegible], unless it be in the particular matter of unlading [illegible], without a special license therefor. The matter standing thus, I feel constrained to yield to the authority of the only direct adjudication, within my knowledge, upon the question—the case of the Hunter, [illegible] by Mr. Justice Washington in the U. S. Court for New Jersey, in 1806. That case was in all respect [illegible] to this, and the Court held that section 50 did not apply [illegible] the case came under section 27 and the vessel was not subject to forfeiture. True Mr. Justice Story in the case of the Industry six years later intimates a [illegible] opinion, but the case was altogether dissimilar, and did not require a decision of the question. What he there says upon this subject, I must consider only as the dictum of a learned Judge, dropped in the course of ar[illegible] other questions and not a binding precedent.

[illegible] That the libel be dismissed; and that the U. S. have thirty days to take an appeal to the Circuit Court, and that a certificate of probable cause of seizure be allowed to the officer making the seizure.

"[illegible] the State."—Under the above caption, [illegible] contains an article, in which a late citizen of the Dalles gets quite an extended notice with [illegible] opportunity of ventilating his opinions on [illegible] things in general. We are sorry that we [illegible] with the Oregonian regret his departure. That his [illegible] of the value he has been to this community, is in an inverse ratio to the fact, we need not assert. While [illegible], public spirited citizens are needed and [illegible] to every prosperous community, we cannot [illegible] those men who come among us for the purpose of [illegible] a stake and then leaving without a good word in their [illegible] for the bridge that has carried them over safely."—[illegible]

[illegible] letter on the same subject, it is very [illegible] that the matter, as set forth by our informant, [illegible]

[illegible]—Mr. Rives, the victim of James [illegible], is an aged man without means. We under[illegible] will be circulated, commencing to-day, [illegible] of rendering him some relief. It has [illegible] clear to us what became of the money [illegible] from him. Very many stories are in [illegible] concerning the matter. We have understood that the gold was buried on the east side of the river, [illegible] ran the risk of losing his own life, and that of a [illegible] who accompanied him, in crossing the [illegible] a very boisterous night to search for the treasure. [illegible] that parties not far from Washington [illegible] also know something about it. It is due to [illegible] that some statement be made by [illegible] as was reported he would do when convicted [illegible] of guilty—entered "for the benefit of his future [illegible] any investigation before the Court, and he [illegible] without throwing any light upon a dark [illegible]

[illegible]—A man named J. B. Carter [illegible] the County Jail in this city by Constable [illegible] precinct, on a commitment from Justice [illegible] to appear at the next term of the Circuit Court [illegible] of murder, committed on the 15th by [illegible] Wm. Burns. The circumstances of the murder, [illegible] we are able to learn them, are to the effect that [illegible] Burns had had a difficulty concerning a land claim. Carter was in possession, having taken the claim on a debt owing him from Burns, and the latter had a sale [illegible] Carter. Meeting in the public road on [illegible] some words passed between them, when Burns [illegible] to draw a revolver on the defendant, who had a gun, and shot him dead from his horse. Carter is quite an elderly man.

The Nicolson Pavement.—A San Francisco paper of late date "notes with pleasure" that the Nicolson Pavement is being laid down on Howard street in that city. We note with pleasure that it will be laid down in Portland the [illegible] summer on First street, for a distance of thirteen blocks, and it is thought it will be extended farther. The people have had ample opportunity to see the [illegible] arising from this mode of street pavement, and we hope soon the unsightly mud holes on every street will be supplanted with this elegance. The right now [illegible] in the city, and the work is open to bidders, and it can be put down much more reasonably than any other [illegible] of street work. The McAdamized portion of W[illegible] street is a perfect mud hole, now, where it is used to any extent, and we are particularly "down" on [illegible] of improvement.

The Case of Strauss and Mosserman.—The examination of Julius Strauss and Isaac Mosserman, occupied most of the time in Recorder's Court yesterday, and last [illegible] before Justice Hoffman. The defendants were held to [illegible] in the sum of $500 each, and court adjourned [illegible] o'clock. A motion, made by the counsel [illegible], to hear further evidence in the case will be [illegible] this morning at 9 o'clock. The case was [illegible] by District Attorney Hodgkinson, Page and [illegible] appearing for the defence. A very large [illegible] of citizens who patiently listened to the arguments last evening, shows that there is some considerable interest felt in regard to the case.

St. Patrick's Day.—The recurrence of the anniversary known as St. Patrick's Day, will be celebrated in this city to-day by our Irish fellow-citizens. The programme of exercises has been published for some time past and are very well understood. The band of the 14th Infantry will arrive by the steamer Fanny Troup with the Vancouver Societies, and after services at the Catholic church the procession will march through the principal streets as designated. Great preparations have [illegible] made for the ball in the evening at the Lincoln House.

Election of Officers.—The third annual election of the Washington Guards, Company B, O. V. M., was held at the armory of the Company last evening, and resulted as follows: C. S. Mills, Captain; Wm. Young, 1st Lieut.; Alexander Campbell, 2d Lieut.; [illegible], 1st Sergeant; Vincent Cook, 2d Serg't; [illegible] 3d Serg't; H. Cook 4th Serg't; J. McDonald 5th Serg't; Ed. F. Albright, Secretary; [illegible] J. Snodgrass, Treasurer.

Fixing for Two.—At about eight o'clock last evening a row occurred on Front street, near the postoffice, between two men named Patrick Bolster and Frank Soule. We could not learn the cause of the difficulty which had called the parties into the street with revolvers further than that it was reported Bolster had threatened Soule, and was going to give him a chance to carry his threat into execution. A large crowd gathered but the presence of the police prevented any shots passing between them.

Drying Up.—In four days the streets of this city have [illegible] dried up and become passable. First street [illegible] never will dry up, and teams will soon be [illegible] to cart the mud away, preparatory to the proposed improvement of that thoroughfare by laying down the Nicolson pavement. Much sickness may be expected in the city during the summer—cholera or no cholera.

Fish Thieves.—Mr. F. P. Schrader, of the City [illegible] Saloon, corner of Front and C streets has been for over a year cultivating gold fish in an aquarium in his garden, and the fish, after thriving well during summer and winter, were stolen a few nights ago. Parties purchasing gold fish are requested to look out from whom they buy.

Divine Service.—Rev. B. C. Lippincott will deliver a [illegible] to the Sabbath School children of the M. E. Church, on Sabbath (to-morrow) at 10½ o'clock. Rev. A. F. Waller, agent of the Willamette University will preach in the evening at the same place.

A New Post Office.—We notice that Postmaster Handall is preparing a very neat and convenient place in Hoyt's block, on First street, for the Post Office which he soon proposes to move into that locality adjoining his music store.

Street Scene in Memphis.—The Memphis Bulletin gives the following: [illegible] a certain public gentleman who took a lady across a muddy street, without [illegible]

Exciting Contest in Commerce.—The Astoria Gazette of Tuesday last says the bark Samuel Merritt, formerly of the Oregon Packet Line, has been purchased for the [illegible], and some rather expect that the advent [illegible] Merchants' [illegible] San Francisco [illegible] three [illegible] vessels in that trade [illegible]. Certainly there must be a [illegible] business here for the [illegible] to the business if three or more of the sail vessels and they come [illegible] $4 per ton. When the [illegible] of the [illegible] will [illegible] any of the barks unless there is more business. But business will nearly or quite double this season [illegible] of the opposition.

The Stage Driver.—The following tribute to the stage driver is from the Boise Statesman. Perhaps there is no class of men on this coast to whom the people are under greater obligation than to the stage driver [illegible]. Who that has [illegible] the men who are running the stage and Fast Freight line, there must be a fearful state of weather out of doors. Some idea of the fare they must have may be gathered from the bronzed and hard old faces of the drivers who go daily through rain and storm and cold that require no ordinary degree of endurance. The fact is the midnight work of a [illegible] calls for [illegible] men fellow feeling for the stage driver. We like him and think everybody else ought to. There is scarcely an individual in the community who is not in the daily receipt of some [illegible] convenience or profit, derived from his vigilance and care.

For Fort Stevens.—The sloop Harvest Queen, Capt. Dean, sails from Knott's wharf this morning for the above Fort with a full cargo of building materials. The Harvest Queen has become a regular packet in the line and is capable of carrying a large amount of materials from the city furnished to government.

The Missing Vessel.—From Captain Dean, of the sloop Harvest Queen, we learn that the missing sloop, under command of Capt. Kellogg, when last seen was north of the Columbia river. She has probably been driven far to the north, and will yet reach her destination in safety.

Arrests.—Two men, named Tice and Prapel have been arrested charged with shooting the mules of Mrs. Johnson, referred to yesterday in the Oregonian. They give bonds in the sum of $500 each, for examination on Friday of next week.

The Farmers.—From gentlemen who have visited the interior within two days past, we learn that the farmers are actively engaged in their spring work. In many fields two or three teams are engaged in plowing for their spring seeding.

Wagon Road.—A petition is receiving names and subscriptions for the purpose of constructing a wagon road from Vancouver to the Cascades. The Legislature of Washington Territory assisted the enterprise conditional that the people contribute a portion to it.

Benefit of Mr. Ward.—The Theatre will open on Monday evening, on the occasion of a benefit to Mr. Thos. Ward, the popular manager. We trust our people will respond liberally in filling the house at a benefit so worthy.

Discharged.—Leon and Mad Gerardo, arrested for assault on Hestler and Engel were discharged on examination yesterday, it appearing to the Court that the act was justifiable.

The Sale.—To-day, by Mr. Richardson, affords one of the few opportunities for people to make capital bargains. See advertisement.

Wearing of the Green.—The hills and valleys about us are speedily putting on a Fenian green looking sort of dress, incident to the return of spring.

State Items.

At the recent election for officers of the town of Jacksonville, J. R. Wade, Augustus Taylor, J. Miller, M. Brentano, and L. T. Davis, were chosen Trustees; U. S. Hayden, Recorder; G. M. Banks, Marshal; Wm. Kreuzer, Treasurer; and G. E. Ross, Street Commissioner.

The Circuit Court for Marion county has been in session this week. On Thursday Judge Boise sentenced James Fagan alias James Blackeny to three years in the Penitentiary for stealing and selling a horse, the property of S. & J. Durbin, of Salem.

James Murray was fined fifty dollars and costs for an assault on one Ed Herman last fall. Herman has skedaddled for parts unknown.

From Mr. Pengra's "report of the recent surveys and progress of construction of the Oregon Central Military Road," we learn that the section of the road between Eugene City and Butte Disappointment, twenty three miles, was finished last July, with the exception of a few bridges and the ferries in the Middle Fork of the Willamette. These latter were completed in November. The section between Butte Disappointment and Pine Openings in the Cascades, was completed except about four and one half miles on the 15th of November, so that at that date, sixty miles of the road might be safely traveled. Work is to be resumed at the earliest practicable day this spring, and the road pushed to speedy completion.

Daniel Syron, whose store in Yamhill county was lately robbed, traced the guilty parties to Portland where they remained several days spending their booty among the nymphs du pave. Getting pretty near through with their ill gotten gains, they concluded to go up the river. Mr. Syron knowing of their movements, telegraphed to Salem to have them arrested, which was done upon their arrival Thursday evening. They were three boys named M. W. Syron, (a nephew of Daniel Syron,) C. B. Conner and J. Seward. Mr. Syron went up the following day and took them to Polk county. Among them, they had bought, while at Portland, four silver watches, three revolvers and plenty of ammunition, and had only about sixteen dollars left when arrested.

A new Copperhead paper called The Eugene City News has reached our table. It is a weekly about the size of the Corvallis Gazette, published and edited by J. B. Alexander, and proposes to run without dying till the 30th of June, for $1 50 per copy.

A Mr. Crandall of Waldo, Josephine county, is experimenting for the purpose of discovering a method of reducing the lead ores of that neighborhood into such compact mass as will pay for transportation to market, and is likely to succeed.

The company tunneling into the Shively lead, Jackson county, has pushed the work to the depth of eighty feet.

Mr. Kelly, Register at Roseburg, states that the authorities at Washington have rescinded the order requiring the oath of allegiance to be taken by donation claimants.

The Sentinel says, a few days ago, a French man who mines at the mouth of Shively Gulch, on Jackson creek, picked up a mass of silver and gold weighing about five pounds. The piece was mostly silver, but had some fine specimens of gold in it, together with particles of crystalized quartz.

The first municipal election at La Grande came off on Monday last. Party lines were drawn and a lively time ensued. The Unionists elected all their officers except one trustee.

A correspondent informs us that the prospect for large crops in Grand Ronde valley is good. Much grain will be sown this spring as farmers have become satisfied that grain raising there will prove a paying business.

The Mountaineer says the citizens of Dalles held a meeting Thursday evening to consider the project of opening the route to Blackfoot by way of White Bluffs. A committee of five was appointed to make inquiries regarding the practicability and expediency of this route and to call the meeting together when ready to report.

Quartz mining in the Eagle Creek District is proving a success. The mills that have been running the past winter have yielded satisfactorily, and it is expected that the coming summer will disclose more very rich lodes.

Captain John Smith, some months since appointed Indian Agent at Warm Springs, went up this week to make preparations for assuming management of that reservation.

We learn that the past winter has been comparatively mild in Grand Ronde valley. A letter from there informs us that less stock has died in that valley than in any other east of the Cascade mountains.

Report of the Committee on the Pacific Railroad Convention

WASHINGTON, February 6.—The Pacific Railroad Convention of the United States Commissioners and Directors, and the representatives of connecting roads while in session in this city a few days since appointed a committee to consider the whole subject of the business of the road. The following is their report:

"Your committee after availing themselves of the views expressed by the several engineers to which they have referred and in contemplation of the reasonable construction of the law of Congress recommended to the board the adoption of the following general rules as those which should govern all parties engaged in directing, constructing or accepting the work. Every step taken in the work, and especially in the location of lines and grades should be adapted to ultimate perfection, whatever may be the immediate interests or necessities, so as to secure the nation a grand and complete structure every way worthy of our country, and honorable to the distinguished men who involve their capital and energies in so vast an enterprise. Great care should be observed in the determination of the general and detailed location of the main lines, consistent with economical grade, and the cost of described passes of mountains. The law denoted but few points still it is clearly the interest of the Government and not prejudicial to the companies to determine such points as a great line should have so as to unite as far as possible, all the great ultimate purposes of a central and convenient channel of the commerce of nations that is likely to traverse the road.

"With this general view of the work, careful and extended surveys should be made and well considered. While the law makes the grades and surveys adopted on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad a standard, this is only to be considered as a limit to be adopted in mountain districts in determining grades of one hundred and sixteen feet per mile, as curves as sharp as four hundred feet radius in other parts of the road would manifestly violate the special intent of the word grades, and curves should be settled on principles of true economy and adaptation based on careful and scientific practical investigation, having due regard to cost of construction and future working of the road.

"It is well to say in advance that in the Platte and Kansas Valleys, or level plains, no grade should exceed thirty feet elevation per mile in all parts of the main line of road or branches, embankments should not be less than fourteen feet wide at the grade line. When excavations or cuts are long, they should be twenty six feet wide, and in shorter cuts at least twenty-four, thus leaving in all cases some room for considerable rule ditches of ample depth and width so as to secure the most essential requisition, a well drained road. Bed-rock excavations should be not less than sixty feet wide, and all the tunnels should be excavated for a double track; slopes of earth embankments should be one and a half base, and on rise excavations, except rock, should have slopes from one to one and a half base to one rise, depending on the material, or, if proper, then to have an increased width at grade so as to remove the quantity of slopes. Culverts and abutments for bridges and drains should be of stone, whenever a durable article can be obtained within a distance of from five to eight miles, depending upon circumstances; provided that temporary trestles may be adopted on assurance to the satisfaction of the Commissioners that stone abutments will be substituted immediately after the line shall be opened, so that stone can be transported thereon; but if good stone be too remote, then hard burned brick or wood trestle may be adopted, the wood to be of the most durable character the country will afford, and the wood and the bricks to be replaced by stone when the material can be conveyed conveniently by rail. The bridges of stone, or iron, or wood, such as the home stones, or other of equally as good structure, should be used at the discretion of the company.

"A railroad cannot be considered complete till it is ballasted. If composed of gravel or broken stone, it should be from twelve to twenty-four inches thick, depending on the latter material for the side of new embankments, which require rains before ballasting can be properly placed, and also, in view of the number of miles required by the law to be constructed annually, the perfect finish of the road bed in this respect must be progressive and the work of time. Yet it is the opinion of the Board that such work of perfecting ballast must proceed as usual on first-class roads, otherwise, subsequent sections should not be accepted [illegible] the work is not then being carried forward as a great Pacific Railroad, such as the law contemplates. For ties oak or other suitable timber should be used, where it can be obtained with reasonable transportation. When such timber cannot be obtained for all the ties, at a reasonable cost, then that which the country affords may be adopted; but if it be cottonwood or a similar soft material, it must be burnetized thoroughly, so as to increase its durability; but in all cases the joint ties should be of oak or other suitable timber, the better to hold the spikes at these points. There should be at least 2,400 ties to the mile. They should be eight feet long, six inches thick; if hewn, six inches on the face; if sawed, they should not be less than eight inches wide, and not less than 2,400 per mile, or such number as will have the same bearing surface; but that if any sawed ties have been already provided, delivered or contracted for only seven inches wide, they may be laid down.

"The rails of American iron, as required by law, of the best quality, should weigh sixty pounds to the yard; but in consideration of the great cost of transportation from the present location of the rolling mills to the remote sections of this road, the iron may be adopted which weighs only fifty-six pounds to the yard. In mountain districts, however, where heavier engines will be used, not less than sixty pound rails should be adopted; provided, that if any companies have on hand or contracted for any rails of different weight from that herein specified, and not under fifty-six pounds per yard, such rails may be used.

"The rails should be attached to each tie by spikes driven on both sides of the rail. As the nearest approximation to a continuous rail, the suspended fish joint is preferred and recommended, but if found that it will retard the progress of the work, the Connor American wrought-iron chair may be used. The length of the side tracks shall be at least six per cent. of the line completed, to be increased as the number of passing trains shall require. Side tracks should also be laid eight feet apart in the clear between the rails wherever a cattle guard or road crossing are necessary that they should be made.

"Locomotives, engines and cars must be provided in liberal proportion to the traffic, and the construction to be increased from time to time as the completion of additional sections and the increase of business seem to require.

"Engine houses, repair shops and station buildings should be adapted to the wants of the service at the opening of business. The extent and capacity of the buildings may be only such as to provide liberally for the existing rolling stock and business of the road, and such probable early increase as may seem likely, yet the plan in all cases, both as to the buildings and the ground, should be arranged for enlargements and extensions equal to any future business of the road, the building at first erected forming the appropriate parts of a complete and systematic whole. The engine house and repair shops at the principal stations must, in all cases, be of stone or brick with good stone foundations, and the covering should be slate or metallic, to guard against fire.

"Water stations should be erected at convenient distances to suit the wants of trains, extensive and convenient portions of ground should be procured to accommodate a future large business, and the proper titles should be carefully secured, all this the more desirable as lands are now easily obtained at moderate prices. In the specifications nothing is required which may not be regarded as essential to a commodious and complete railroad.

"Nothing is proposed to retard the progress of the companies, the importance and public desire for accelerated movements have been fully appreciated, and the Board earnestly desires to favor and foster the energy and fidelity which now seems to animate those engaged in the construction. But, while guarding against delay on the one hand, the public interest requires on the other a substantial and complete work, and the highest perfection of track reasonably attainable on a new road is expected and prognosticated as the standard to which the workmen are to arrive. The argument in favor of speedy construction must be subordinate to the substantial objects of the roads. The Government must be certain to have a work that will carry her mails, troops, munitions of war and commerce of the country with entire certainty and celerity.

"We are convinced that it is the aim of this Board to secure all these objects, and it is also our belief that they are not incompatible it being only necessary on the part of the Government to insist upon the reasonable requirements embodied in this report to hasten the completion of this work, and at the same time adapt it to the highest public interest which it is intended to subserve.

Thomas H. Reynolds has been appointed Deputy Marshal of the City of Salem

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND, March 16 1866

Our latest papers from California are to the [illegible]. The telegraph however has kept us well informed of the condition of the market and our merchants are regulated by the dispatches to regulate their business in conformity to the times which gives us favorable opportunities to purchasers in this market as elsewhere. Money is scarce and in active demand. Legal tender notes have measurably responded to the drooping [illegible] with limited operations at from 74 last week to 75 and 76c at present date.

Matters relating to the mining and quartz milling are encouraging. The experience of those engaged at Santiam where the business has been carried on to considerable extent for the purpose of establishing facts tending to show that there is as valuable interests there as at any place yet discovered with the exception of some of the most prominent ledges in Owyhee. It is considered, upon reliable tests that the quartz veins of Santiam will not only increase in size and percentage of the precious metals according to the depth obtained and correspond in a direct ratio with the success that has attended the workings of the Comstock ledge in Nevada.

The prospecting of Santiam has been done with a most tireless perseverance by a few individuals and now that they are in a fair way to command complete success the feeling of encouragement seems to be greatly stimulated. Had they met with utter pecuniary ruin no doubt we should hear but little more of them, as is generally the case but now that success is beyond a doubt, all admire the courage and persistent effort put forth by them. The prospector after precious metals rarely gets his just dues, and is often found immolated by self from society after disastrous "luck."

In this connection we desire to say that the most flattering prospect is now open in the Ruckel ledge of Baker county, formerly known as the Rockfellow. Mining at this ledge has been carried on properly and systematically as Col Ruckel being the only stockholder, has not permitted any carelessness or incompetency to enter into his plans. He has been to great expense in the commission made taken by him but the management proves to have developed a mine more valuable than the cost of its maintenance, and which promises largely for the future perhaps for many years to come. For the good of the country it might be well for stockholders in large companies to devise means by which their works may be conducted in a practical manner in all cases. We believe the Ruckel mine will be one of the most productive in the country, and in the course of the present year become fully as much esteemed as the most famous ledges of Massachusetts Hill in Grass Valley.

The tide of emigration seems setting in the direction of the mines of Oregon and adjacent Territories. Montana seems to be the most popular place to go to. Eastern capital is finding its way into the Territories, and the developments of the next few years must be enormous. The present wealth of Montana may be surmised, when we state that the report of the collector of the U S Internal Revenue last year shows $81,737 80 from licenses &c as follows:

Collected for licenses issued.	$37,335 30
manufactures tax etc	7,467 18
income of 1864	24,068 86
slaughtering cattle etc	2,565 40
freighting and expressing	4 261 67
from other sources.	2 950 34
	$81 737 80

Of the $37,335 35 collected for licenses, $13,600 76 or nearly two fifths was for wholesale and retail licenses, and $4,346 30 for miners licenses.

The inequality in the taxation of tobacco under the revenue laws, along with other matters connected with the trade of that staple article, is attracting considerable attention at the East among those engaged in the business. From the facts and figures submitted by recent conventions of dealers in various cities, the tobacco men appear to have made out a strong case, and their representations seem to show that if tobacco was taxed on the leaf instead of the present mode, the Government would obtain a much larger income than ever before, and that all the vexatious regulations now in force, which harrass the manufacturer might be abandoned. This is made plain also by seemingly indisputable figures. It appears that large numbers of manufacturers have been compelled, after severe losses, to forsake their business; the production has fallen off from 128,121,000 pounds in 1860, to 107,000,000 pounds in 1864. "Shoe-string" trading has been encouraged; smuggling has become common; and the trade is now suffering an extensive depression. A Washington correspondent states that no reduction in the revenue tax on tobacco is contemplated; but, on the contrary, the tax is likely to be increased. This, if true, will be an unwise policy, for all experience goes to show that any tax which is very high, however skillfully arranged otherwise, contains within itself all the elements of its own defeat. The stocks of tobacco on this coast are very light, and a good article rules high, with firmness.

The tax on distilled spirits has also caused some remarkable action, but the telegraph, during the period under review, has informed us that the duties will remain as heretofore. As is the case with tobacco, the increase of duty has been followed by a decrease in products, and in income. The reports show some curious results in the comparison of 1864 with 1865. They are as follows:

	Gallons.	Revenue.
1865...	16,936,778	16,295,633

The Commissioner, in giving the detailed workings of the system in operation, reasons that the result is fallacious, and that the excess of production in 1864 having been stimulated by the prospective rise of duty, and the late consumption being mainly from stocks which were not liable to tax, or had paid the smaller rate. This subject is reviewed at length, conceding that there is a diminished consumption produced by increased taxation, but that a fair estimate will place the production at $20,000,000 during the coming year.

Prices of liquor are firm. Daly's brands of whiskies have advanced the past week 25 cents per gallon, and English brands at a cost of $0 60 in Victoria, cannot be received here at less than $1 40 duties, the tax being $2 40 greater than the original cost. Considering all these circumstances however, stocks are about as full as usual, and trade good.

Wholesale and Jobbing Prices.

PORTLAND, March 16, 1866

Trade has been good for the period under review. Coffee is declining, Stocks are light, but will be considerably augmented by the time the steamers Montana and Pacific can arrive, which will be very likely to be on Monday next. Crushed sugar is also less, and Kerosene has come down to $1 00 ℔ gallon in lots by the case.

Retail trade has slightly improved during the past week. Eggs continue to arrive freely and prices are tending downward—purchasers are offering to-day but 18c to 20c ℔ doz. Poultry is scarce and high.

Game is nearly out of season, except canvas-back ducks. The present being the last season for them we notice several choice lots in the market. Speaking of game reminds us of the importance of having a good game law enforced in this State. The attention of all persons interested in the protection of game is now directed to this important subject. Sportsmen of this locality will certainly lend their influence to have a proper law passed at the next session of the State Legislature.

The season has arrived for gardening. The high prices realized for early vegetables, we should think, should stimulate farmers and gardeners in planting, and that they may secure the best quality of pure fresh seeds, we would direct their attention to the card of Messrs Knapp Burrell & Co and J O Conner as suitable establishments to supply their wants.

Messrs Higgins & Co. are offering soap warranted equal to the imported article at reduced rates. We are disposed to believe that the prejudice existing against home made articles, is the principal cause of the superiority of Colgate and other brands. The prejudice is in reality without foundation. Messrs Herman & Murphy, Williams & McBride, and Higgins & Co, offer the home-made soap at retail, at 20 cents per bar.

The vegetable markets of California will be found supplying our markets yet, for about six weeks.

Woolen and Cotton Goods.

PORTLAND, March 16 1866

The woolen and cotton goods market is well supplied, and very full of assorted goods. The Woolen Works at Oregon City have in successful operation nineteen looms and are manufacturing from 1 000 to 1 200 yards daily of cassimeres, doeskins, tweeds flannels sheetings, &c among which we were pleased to see during a recent visit, very many new patterns.

Messrs McCraken Merrill & Co have on hand and offer for sale sheetings from the Oakland Cotton Mills the pioneer establishment of California. The goods appear to be of excellent quality.

The Secretary of the Interior, in response to a resolution of the House, communicates a list of the cities of the United States, with statistics of their manufactures, including those having 10 000 inhabitants and upwards. It includes one hundred and two cities, beginning with New York and ending with Newport, Ky. The total cash capital employed is $417,120 234. hands employed—males, 410,920; females, 147,000; value of products, $874,934 627.

New York stands first in the list. Capital $61,212 767; males employed 66,483; females, 24 741; value of products $159,107 369.

Philadelphia employs a capital of $73,318,889; male operatives, 63,350; females, 40,030, value of products, $135,979,777.

Cincinnati is third in order. Products, $46,000,000; capital, $17,000 000 in round numbers.

Boston—Products, $30,000 000; capital, $13,000,000.

The other principal cities produce as follows; Brooklyn $34,000,000; Newark, $22,000,000; St Louis $21,000 000. Baltimore, $21,000,000, San Francisco, $19 000 000, Lowell, $16 000,000, Providence, $15,000,000 Louisville $12,000,000; Richmond $14,000 000 Pittsburg, $11,000,000, New Bedford, $11,000,000, Chicago, $11,000,000, New Orleans, $10,000,000, Manchester, $10 000 000. Troy, $10,000,000; Rochester, $10,000,000.

The woolen manufactures of the country have doubled since the commencement of the war. It is shown by official figures that in the four years ending June 30th 1865, the woolen shoddy and woolens imported make an aggregate of one hundred and thirty millions of dollars of which unmanufactured wool amounts to two hundred and eighty-one millions of pounds, costing forty-five millions of dollars. Nearly all the imports of wool under the late tariff come at either three or four cents per pound duty, averaging less than four cents. The wools of Australia and South Africa, which are fine merinos, are invoiced at less than twenty-four cents per pound. Oregon wool stands high in the Eastern markets.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS, Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

ITS ACTION IS EXPECTORANT, ALTERATIVE, SUDORIFIC SEDATIVE DIAPHORETIC AND DIURETIC, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect, that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

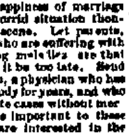
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,



617 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases such as Gonorrhea, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system. Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies are that they are cured for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness.

Seminal Emissions, the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice, or depraved sexual indulgence, is practiced by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing, with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combatted by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fetid breath, coughs, consumption, night sweats, monomania and frequent insanity. If relief be not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Doctor Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.
